Humanities' Oracle

Imagine yourself taking a morning stroll, you see a blooming flower and instantaneously feel the urge to smell its fragrance, the flower captures your senses with its beautiful form, magnificent color, and ethereal scent. This whole experience renders an irreplaceable imprint in your mind and reaches the depths of your soul. The same stands true for something that is repulsive and repugnant, the toxicity can be felt and sensed.

Everything that comes in our contact has an influence on us be it things, experiences, or people, consciously, subconsciously, or unconsciously. We must decide and choose between good and bad influences and to do this awareness is paramount of all that is materializing and shaping around you. Only then you can expose or protect yourself from the influence.

For good influences to be effectual, it is mandatory to open the inner doors of your soul and let it penetrate and seep into the depths of your being. For instance, we look at the rising Sun and let its positive rays speak to us in all its splendid glory and brilliance, it awakens the spiritual Sun inside us as its warmth and light glow within us.

Find out whether the influence is good? People who stimulate you to become more generous, kind and loving always have a good influence!
